AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
GENERAL OFFICES
NEW YORK AND CHICAGO
BRANCHES IN ALL THE PRINCIPAL CITIES

THE MOUNTAINS.

"For some time past we have been carefully studying the newspaper reports of crime committed in Kentucky, and the trials of those indicted for the same. We have especially been comparing the record in these particulars of what is known as the Mountains of Kentucky with Louisville, the Metropolis of the state, and Lexington, the leading city of the Bluegrass. These two cities probably represent the highest culture and best educated places of the Commonwealth. In each of them crime is just as prevalent as a like population in either the Tenth or Eleventh Congressional District, and the per cent. of convictions, in murder cases especially, is larger than in Louisville or Lexington.

"We have, of course, been unable to keep tab on all the cases in any of the sections, but barring the feuds in the mountains, which we now think is a matter of the past, life is as safe in the mountains of Kentucky as it is in either Louisville or Lexington, and probably much safer. It is easier to fix a jury or to prevent justice in our cities than in our mountain territory and it is more often done. It is time our metropolitan press should quit slandering our mountain people and sweep cleaner before their own doors. The establishment of churches and abolishment of the saloon are chiefly responsible for the improved conditions in the mountains and if the Blind Tigers could be put out of business the mountains would show still greater improvement in the observance of the law. Whiskey from lawless dives is at the bottom of nearly every killing in that part of the State."—Elizabethtown News.

CHEERS FOR ROOSEVELT; VOTES FOR TAFT.

The result of the Cook County Republican Convention, held in Chicago the other day, may be taken as typical, in large degree, of what to expect from other such gatherings and from the national convention.

The name of Roosevelt was greeted with a storm of cheers. A viva-voce vote on a resolution to endorse him for the presidency brought forth an affirmative acclaim so vigorous that there seemed to be an even break in sentiment. But the roll-call told another story. By an overwhelming majority of votes the Colonel was turned down, and the confidence and approval of the delegates were later bestowed upon the President.

It looks as if the Roosevelt boom were largely one of shouts and salves. It owes its portentous appearance to the noisiness of its promoters. Theodore controls the megaphone, but friend William, of the White House controls the votes.

It is interesting to note, however, what the Colonel has achieved, intentionally or otherwise, by his hysterical and ambiguous policy. His indirect and unconfessed entry into the field some weeks ago, an entry accompanied by means of his friends, and helped by his own comment on public questions, resulted in putting an effective check upon the La Follette movement and taking the wind out of the Cummins candidacy before it had a chance to get under way. He cleared the field of all possibilities but himself and the President.

Then came his announcement in which he declared that he would not accept the nomination as the gift of political intrigue; but that he would not refuse it if made as the demand of the people. That announcement meant that he would neither make nor countenance the making of a fight upon the President; it meant that, so far as he was concerned, if Mr. Taft could secure a majority of the delegates to the convention he was welcome to them; there would be no interference from Oyster Bay with the White House program.

This assurance is all the friends of Mr. Taft wanted. No real doubt remains that the President will go to Chicago with enough delegates to capture the convention. La Follette cannot stop him; Roosevelt has spiked the Wisconsin's guns, punctured his boom, left him high and dry. The Cummins candidacy is not seriously taken.

President Taft has right of way, with Teddy holding back the crowd and saying, in effect, "Take it Bill, if you can. If you can't why leave it to me."

And as we size up the situation Bill is going to take it.—Louisville Herald.

PARCELS POST.

HOW COLD AFFECTS

THE KIDNEYS.

Avoid taking cold if your kidneys are sensitive. Cold congests the kidneys, throws too much work upon them, and weakens their action. Serious kidney trouble and even Bright's disease may result. Strengthen your kidneys, get rid of the pain and soreness, build them up by the timely use of Foley Kidney Pills. They will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more.

PURE MILK

The state pure food authorities at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station reported Tuesday to County Attorney Scott Ballitt, of Louisville, sixty-five cases for selling watered or skimmed milk against dairymen supplying Louisville and certain restaurants. These cases resulted from the extensive inspections that have recently been made throughout the whole of the Louisville milk field and other parts of Kentucky.

The samples were collected from the milk depots, the dairymen, the restaurants, the hotels and other places where milk is served, and when a sample was found to be watered or skimmed, further investigation was made to determine who was responsible. About 700 samples were analyzed in Louisville and 65 cases reported for prosecution. In most instances the milk was taken from from the dairymen's herds to determine how much water had been added to the milk as supplied by the dairymen's cows.

Red Cross Dairy (Phone 889-x.) supplies to patrons a pure, clean, and sanitary Holstein and grade Jersey milk; not watered.

FIRST LA GRIPPE,

THEN BRONCHITIS.

Such was the case with Mrs. W. S. Bailey, McCreary, Ky. "My wife was taken down with a severe attack of la grippe, which run into bronchitis. She coughed as if she had consumption and could not sleep at night. The Doctor's medicine gave her no relief and I was advised to try Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. The first bottle gave her so much relief that she continued using it and three bottles effected a permanent cure." Mr. W. S. Bailey says he is prepared to answer all inquiries promptly.

CAMPFIRE STORIES

DUTY OF PICKET DURING WAR

Young Recruits Were Troubled Greatly With Bothersome Countersign—
One Gives Up Rifle.

In "A Little Fifer's War Diary" C. W. Bardeen relates many an incident that has not before seen light. Among these are some relating to picket duty and the rendering of the bothersome countersign which are truly remarkable. For instead of possessing at least some faint particle of the soldierly instinct, many of the younger recruits, it would seem, were of a strikingly civilian frame of mind, and this can be no more said of one army than of the other.

This is a characteristic account: One recruit challenged. "Who goes there?" "The Grand Rounds." Instead of saying, "Halt, Grand Rounds. Advance, sergeant, and give the countersign," the recruit exclaimed in disgust, "O, —, I thought it was the relief!"

A general testing the sentries came upon a young recruit who halted him with:

"Stop! Have you the countersign?"

"No," replied the general.

"What, another one without it?" exclaimed the sentry in disgust. "Well, I'll tell you; it's 'Victory.'"

The general gasped for breath.

"What do you mean by giving anyone

"Give Me That Rifle or I'll Cut Your Heart Out."

the countersign?" he at last roared out. "I'm the general and I'll have you hanged."

The sentry was amazed. "Why, my orders were not to let anyone pass without the countersign," he exclaimed. "Let me tell you, I'm tired of giving it. Such a lot don't seem to know it."

Words of this sort might be occasionally heard:

"Who comes there?"

"A friend."

"Advance, friend, and give the countersign."

"Hang it, man, I have forgotten it."

"Begorra, so have I."

One officer, approaching a sentry, was surprised to be greeted with "Hi-tiddle-de-hi-tiddle."

"What do you mean by challenging like that?" he inquired. "The last time I was on duty," was the reply, "I was told to challenge in a more musical voice, and that's the only tune I know."

On the troopship St. Lawrence in 1865 an officer who had just got up from a convivial party proceeded to visit the sentries, and this dialogue was overheard:

"Sentry."

"Yes, sir."

"You're asleep, sentry."

"Oh, no, I am not, sir."

"But I say you are asleep, sentry."

"Very well, then, sir; I am."

"Then why on earth didn't you say you were asleep, sentry?"

"Because I didn't know that I was, sir, until you told me so."

"All right, sentry; don't let it occur again."

But that was a British story, and the following has more of the ring of our war.

To test a sentry an officer after the salute said:

"Let me see your rifle." The recruit handed it over, whereupon the officer said in disgust, "You're a fine soldier! You've given up your rifle and now what are you going to do?" The young fellow drew out a dangerous knife and exclaimed, "Give me that rifle or I'll cut your heart out!"

The officer was more than convinced that he would, and hastily handed the weapon back.

Paid $2.31 After 46 Years.

Forty-six years after he had put in a claim against the government for $2.31, James B. Earl of Denver, Colo., a veteran of the civil war, received his money. As the government pays no interest, Earl's check, which he received recently, was for the exact amount he claimed on Aug. 16, 1865, when he was mustered out of the Union army. At that time his pay check was short $1.60, and his clothing allowance 71 cents.

Earl served with the 5th Iowa in infantry and later with the 5th Iowa cavalry.

THE PARABLE OF THE MAN WHO ADVERTISED

Once upon a time there was a business man who resolved to advertise. He saw what others were accomplishing with direct mail matter, "spreads" in the magazines, bill-boards and other means of publicity, and he warmed to the thought of emulating their success.

So it came to pass that he bled himself to an advertising man and laid his proposition before him. And the a. m., finding it good and exceedingly fertile, recommended therefore a suitable campaign.

The product and its appeal to the public were carefully studied, and letters, magazine ads. and other advertising prepared which would get the right point of contact.

But the business man was not satisfied. "This letter doesn't strike my fancy" and "that ad. wouldn't sell goods to me in a thousand years" and "I don't like the picture that goes with this folder" were some of the criticisms he made when the various copy and layouts came before him.

Oh, he was the wise little gazaboo. He was right there with a whallop when it came to advertising knowledge, and when he got through revising things to suit his individual taste, their author knew that they were indeed orphans.

Protests were of no avail. It was his money he was spending and he "guessed" he knew good advertising when he saw it. You couldn't fool him. People would buy what appealed to him, and when his final O. K. went on any advertising, it was right.

But, sad to relate, likewise quite obvious, the dear public did not seem to have the same taste as he. They found his advertising distinctly non-interesting and passed it by, also up.

So the campaign turned out a failure and the business man becomes really quite peeved now when the subject of "advertising" is mentioned.

All of which brings home this moral—you can't advertise to yourself and expect to have more than one possible buyer.—The Layman Printer.

The uppermost idea in advertising is getting closer to things as they actually are, not as they are assumed to be.—Printer's Ink.

Results Obtained by Sacramento Development Association Have Been Very Satisfactory.

Although less than half of the $50,000 advertising fund of the Sacramento Valley Development association has been available during the past three months, tangible results have been obtained, according to the report of Secretary O. H. Miller.

The report showed that big results are commencing to accrue from the eastern advertising, which the association recently placed in about seventy large publications. From July 15 to August 15 a total of 1,020 inquiries were received from this advertising. Of the inquiries received, as stated in the report, farm journals lead with 561, daily newspapers with 197, and magazines, 140; those received from miscellaneous sources were 82, and from the Sunset Magazine, 50. This is an average cost of 80 cents per inquiry, and which is regarded as exceptionally good for the poorest month of the year, and is considerably below the average usually established as the cost for each inquiry.

The members of the committee declared themselves pleased with the results of eastern advertising and voted to appropriate $7,500 to be used in additional advertising during the winter months.

Advertising for Direct Returns.

Our neighbor killed his Thomas Cat. For reasons all his own. Then he was sorry for the deed. He felt so sad and lone. Next week he advertised for one, and e'er he got replies. The old cat turned up home again. It pays to advertise. T. E. M., in New York Telegram.

A Quick Recovery.

"Mamma," said Johnny, "if you will let me go just this one time I won't ask for anything to eat."

"All right," said his mother. "Get your hat."

Johnny, perched on the edge of a big chair, became restless as savory odors came from the region of the kitchen. At last he blurted out: "There's lots of pie and cake in this house."

The admonishing face of his mother recalled his promise and he added: "But what's that to me?"—From Success Magazine.

Real Advertising Is News.

The successful merchants of today place their faith in honest, common-sense, persistent publicity. They know that advertising is simply news—news of merchandise, and prices, and store service, and so on. And the advertiser who gives the people the news they want to read has the only sort of power over pocketbooks that is fundamentally sound.—Baltimore Sun.

His Success.

"I wonder if anybody will ever attempt to fix weather signs on a height?"

"Why?"

"Because it is more or less a vain attempt."

Sad Fact.

"Two are company."

"Yes—until they are made one."

LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE

One of the most beautiful passages of Scripture in the New Testament tells us to let our light so shine before men that others seeing our good works may glorify our Father, which is in Heaven.

I am sure that through the Associated Charities God's will is being done. Their light is shining in many poor motherless or fatherless homes in our little city. God's little ones are being looked after in a way that has never before been done. Anyone giving to promote this worthy cause God will add to his cup of happiness in the great beyond.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

AULD LANG SYNE

To The Editor of The News:

Having read the announcement of the management of the "Lyric" of the return of the picture "Auld Lang Syne" and remembering the pleasure with which I saw this picture when it was here several weeks ago, I desire to say a few words to you readers. Every one who has considered the subject of moving pictures realizes that they have come to stay and that they are becoming a factor in the life of every community of any size, either for good or evil according to the character of the picture shown.

Now, while I do not pose as a competent critic of moving pictures, being somewhat in the same attitude of the five year old grandson of one of our former citizens of some eight years of age who some years ago remarked as he looked upon the devastation of a severe winter storm and sleet: "I never saw the like before," and the little fellow promptly said "I never did either," however, I will say that the picture referred to is the most beautiful that I have ever seen.

So feeling that the management of the "Lyric" should be encouraged to bring to our city those pictures that will be helpful and elevating, and feeling sure that everyone who sees this picture will be fully repaid for their time and money, I would recommend it to your readers, and especially do I wish that every boy and girl could have the pleasure of seeing it, as it is not only pleasing to the eye but the story it tells is beautiful.

Very respectfully,
R. O. FITCH.

THANK God the meanness of his of his creatures Has two soul sides, one to face the world with— One to show a woman when he loves her. —Browning.

GOOD THINGS TO TRY.

The culinary architect is keenly alive to anything new in combination or serving and a few recipes of new dishes are always hailed with delight. Here are a few to tickle the palate:

Bohemian Pear Dainty.—Dissolve two heaping tablespoons of gelatin in a cup of boiling water, add six ripe pears that have been peeled and rubbed through a sieve, four tablespoons of sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla and two cups of whipped cream. Mold in a wet mold and turn out when set. Decorate with sweetened whipped cream and peeled pears.

Chocolate Sponge.—Take two and a half squares of chocolate, melted, add two tablespoons of powdered gelatin, and two cups of milk, three tablespoons of sugar. Stir over the fire until melted and smooth, then strain into a basin. Add one cup whipped cream and the white of egg beaten stiff. Pour into a mold and let stand to set.

Lamb Chops With Cucumber.—Cook the chops until brown on both sides. Peel a good-sized cucumber and cut into small dice; simmer in boiling water until almost done, drain and season with butter and cook until quite tender. Add salt, chopped parsley and pepper. Arrange the chops around the edge of the platter and heap the cucumbers in the center.

Orange Pudding.—Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch which has been mixed with a little cold milk, then add the yolks of two eggs and a cupful of sugar. Cook until smooth then remove from the heat. Peel and slice thin two oranges, sprinkle with sugar, then pour over them the chilled custard. A meringue may be added and browned in the oven. Chill and serve cold.

Distant Courtesy.—"As an artist I suppose you assume to be indifferent to money?" "No, I'm not indifferent. But I'm not sufficiently acquainted to attempt familiarity."

A Difficult Request.—The Customer—Do you sell invisible hair nets? The Assistant—Yes, madam. The Customer—Will you let me see one, please?—London Sketch.

Parasols for Fowls.—The burning question of the day in the minds of all thoughtful poultry keepers, says C. N. Perkins in the Poultry Review (U. S. A.), is how to provide shade for the fowls during the hot weather.—Farm Life.

There are various things to do, suggests London Punch. A parasol for every fowl is sometimes tried. Another way is to teach them "In the Shadows."

Valuable Fertilizer.—The dust collected from numerous vacuum cleaners has proved to be a valuable fertilizer, and its sale has become a regular business in Paris.

Here's Some Important News For Men Who Are Growing Bald.

People who have taken our word for it that PARISIAN SAGE is the real hair grower, beautifier and dandruff cure have never been disappointed. Here's the word of a person who took our word:

"I have been using PARISIAN SAGE about a year. When I began to use it I had only a light 'fuzz' on my head. Now I have a good thick growth, and it is growing thicker and longer right along. Many people don't believe it can be done, but I know from my own experience with PARISIAN SAGE that it can; I recommend it in the fullest confidence."

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR MISSING MINISTER

Eldest Son of Rev. L. S. Fuller Arrives in Lexington With No News of His Father's Whereabouts.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 13.—Mr. S. L. Fuller, of Hartford, Conn., eldest son of the missing minister, Rev. L. S. Fuller, arrived in Lexington Monday morning and is at the home of his mother, 532 Rose street, preparing to take up a new line of search for his father.

Mr. Fuller spent practically all of last week at the scene of Rev. Fuller's disappearance in Southeastern Ohio, and at Charleston, W. Va., making investigations in all the towns where his father was reported to have been seen after his disappearance from Evergreen, Ohio. No definite information having been obtained there, either by him or others who were helping in the search, Mr. Fuller decided to come to Lexington.

Tuesday he will have cuts made from photographs of his father, and have circulars printed, giving his dis-scription and the time and place of his disappearance, which he will send broadcast over all the country where his father might have gone.

Mr. Fuller said he had reached the conclusion that his father was attacked with some form of illness which caused his mind to become impaired, and that he had wandered around until taken to a hospital. He expressed his belief that the missing man had met with no foul play, and would be found within the next week or two at most.

Mr. Fuller said he had searched for his father night and day last week, and would continue looking for him, without returning to his home in the East, until some definite information was obtained.

CAUSE OF DEATH OF MRS. WOOD

Is Not Determined.—Coroner Directs That Stomach of Supposed Gas Victim be Analyzed.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 13.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Mrs. Madie Lee Wood, wife of L. E. Wood, who was found dead Sunday morning from supposed asphyxiation, Monday ordered, after the testimony of two physicians had indicated that she had been poisoned in some way, that the stomach be removed and its contents analyzed at the State University. The family did not want this done and Coroner Dr. J. D. Kiser, said his office had no power to compel obedience to the order.

The action of the jury in ordering an analysis of the stomach, was based principally upon the testimony of Drs. J. P. Warren and N. R. Simmons, and others, who went to the Wood home Sunday morning and made observations of Mrs. Wood's body.

Drs. Warren and Simmons testified that victims of gas poisoning, or asphyxiation, become almost black before or soon after their death, while there was no discoloration noticeable in the face or upon the body of Mrs. Wood when her body was found.

They testified that when they first saw Mrs. Wood after her death, a white froth was streaming from the corners of her mouth, and a faint odor of what they believed might have been some drug, and not the fumes of escaped or burnt gas, was noticed in the closed bedroom. Both the physicians said, indicated internal poisoning, rather than asphyxiation, although the general impression was that death was due to the latter.

The jury returned its partial verdict, holding a final decision until after the stomach analysis, which was ordered, should have been made.
